

Track and gain insights from your transport fleet

For many transport & logistics companies, non-powered assets (like trailers, containers, reefers, etc.) are still a blindspot within this otherwise digitized industry.

Companies need reliable data about the location, movement, availability, and condition of these assets in order to utilize their inventory well and keep losses as low as possible.

However, a manual approach to gathering this data comes with challenges:

Little to no visibility on location of logistics assets

Uncertainty of when and how often assets are used

No live monitoring of transport conditions

Potential theft of logistics assets

An easy to use tracking solution

The Sensolus tracker, coupled with the cloud-based platform creates a digital ecosystem that gives you full visibility of your assets, when they are being used, and when they are available for use.

The control is in your hands.

Return on investment

After deploying Sensolus to track its assets, a transport & logistics company realized:

90%
reduction in lost
fleet assets

85% reduction in manual logging

5% increase in trailer utilization

Get connected, create business value.

Gone are the days of missing trailers, time-consuming searches, and inefficiency due to idle, unused assets. When using the Sensolus tracking solution, companies can easily monitor their transport and logistics fleets.

Reduce time-consuming asset searches and retrieval costs

Optimize asset utilization and maintenance schedules

Fully automated inventory and digital log of whereabouts

Compliance with delivery and condition requirements

Create a digital twin of your most important assets:

Trailers

Reefers & tankers

Transport containers

Transpallets
